

Virtual Reflections User Stories

In addition to basic CRUD (Create, Read, Update, Delete) Operations...

Top Priority:

- As an avid gamer who wants to voice their opinion, I want to be able to like, share, comment, and vote on blog posts.
- As an admin/author for the blog, I want to have an interface that allows for simple and effective posting of photos or reviews so that I can quickly showcase my work.
- As an admin/author for the blog, I want to be able to easily delete posts so that I can have control over what is showcased.
- As a user, I want to have an account to be able to track and see what photos or posts I've liked so that I can record and go back to posts I enjoy.
- As a user, I want to be able to have a selection of games to select from so that I can focus my attention on captures of games that interest me.
- As a user, I want to be able to zoom in on photos easily so that I can inspect every detail on captures.

Backlog:

- As a user who has a smartphone, I want to filter/have a section of captures with a 16:10 ratio so that I can use them as phone wallpapers.
- As an admin/author for the blog, I want to have the option to automatically have a watermark placed on the photo so that I can protect my work while also saving work for myself.
- As a forum user, I want there to be a simple interface to post on forums or discussions so that I can have civil discussions regarding games.
- Dark mode
- Categorize by author or have author specific panels w/ bios
- Search game or author to bring up said pages^^^